

ABSTRACT

In a modular frame assembly having horizontal beams with support lugs received and interlocked in holes in vertical posts, brackets on the beams have pins that snap into one of the post holes to prevent unintended dislocation of the beams from the posts.